

 Need

In order to get your children talking and using the target language, they must feel the need to use it!

If they truly feel that they have to use the target language to interact with the world around them, they will learn it, internalize it and most importantly they will use it.

Creating a need is not always simple since, in most cases, you are constantly surrounded by the community language. Therefore, it is important that children are provided with opportunities to need to use their language skills in order to achieve high levels of fluency. What are some concrete examples of how you will create a “need” to use the target language in 2017?
